

THE BRIGHTON BIENNIAL

Which one is your favorite?

Help the Daily Press & Argus pick the most popular piece of downtown art

Everyone is talking about the 27 pieces of art that make up the Brighton Biennial — a downtown display that's sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on Art in Public Places. Some of them have been controversial, some of them have been praised, some of them have been criticized — and they've all gotten us talking about art. Along those lines, the Daily Press & Argus is sponsoring a Brighton Biennial poll. We want you to vote for your favorite work of art, and on July 2, we'll crown the winner.

So, check out the works of art on this page (or better yet, see them in person), and fill out the ballot below. You can also e-mail in your pick to letters@livingstondaily.com.
